Pioneers

Pioneers are people who travel into an unknown land to settle there. By doing this, they lead the way for others to follow. These pioneers took a wagon across country to Oregon, 2,000 miles away. It took them 3-4 months to get there and they could only take food, clothing, and tools in their wagon. Since the wagon was full with supplies sometimes they had to walk during the day as the ox pulled the wagon across the trail. Play the Oregon trail game to learn more. Everyday wear for men usually consisted of a pair of overalls with a button opening. The shirt had sleeves that were gathered into a cuff. The clothing was homemade and very rough to touch. Women had to wear long sleeves and skirts that went down to their ankles. They covered their heads with a little cap. The dresses and skirts were all made at home, and were usually very plain, some were made of gingham (checked) or calico (small flowers) material. Women and girls wore aprons too, because they spent so much time cooking and preserving foods.

Color the pioneers.

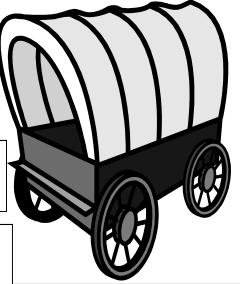

The Covered Wagon or Prairie Schooner

Arches of wood were created to hold up the canvas roof.

Most pioneers chose oxen to pull the wagon because they were strong.

There were drawstrings on the back and front of the wagon to close off the wagon from the dust on the trail.

They left markings along the trail to help the next pioneers coming through next. There was a guide book they used to get along the trail

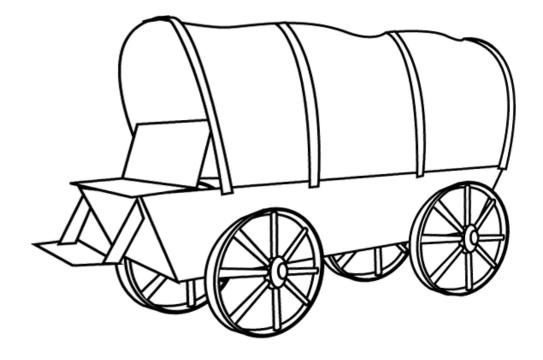

They headed west to get free land for their family or search for gold. The wagon was 4 feet wide and 10 feet long made out of wood. It cost about $110 and could carry 2,000 lbs.

The front wheels of the wagon were smaller than the back wheels. This helped them turn the wheels quickly.

To keep the rain from soaking through the cloth of the roof they rubbed linseed oil on it to create a waterproof barrier.

There were hooks on the arches of the roof to hang tools, pots and pans.

Sacagawea Timeline

Sacagawea was born in the late 1700's.

In 1801, she married Toussaint Charbonneau. She spoke Shoshone and Hidatsa Native American language.

> On November 3, 1804, Lewis and Clark accepts Sacagawea and her husband offers to interpreter along the Lewis and Clark expedition out west. She helped point out food and medicine plants along the journey as well. Sacagawea was 16 at the time and the only woman on the expedition to Oregon Country.

February 11, 1805 she gives birth to Jean Baptiste. Clark nicknames him "pompy" because he was so active. Her being with Lewis and Clark help the Native Americans trust them. They brought many presents to them as well to show their friendly nature such as mirrors, knives, face paint, sewing needles, scissors, bright cloth and ribbons.

May 16, 1805, one of the boats tips over and Sacagawea saves the most important possessions including a telescope, microscope, important papers, compass, and thermometer.

August 12, 1805, she recognizes Beaverhead Rock and knows it is close to Shoshone camp where they will purchase horses for the expedition. When they arrive she is reunited with her long lost brother Camelhair, the chief.

November 8, 1805 they see the Pacific Ocean.

November 24, 1805 she was allowed to vote on where to build the winter quarters.

March 22, 1806 they started back. Clark called her his "pilot" as she led them through the Shoshone trails she had traveled as a child.

May 11, 1806 they meet up with Nez Perce chiefs and Sacagawea interprets.

August 17, 1806 Sacagawea and her family leave the expedition. Her husband was paid $500.33 and 320 acres of land. The expedition lasted 2 years Clark offers to take of their child if ever needed.

1812– She gives birth to a daughter, Lisette.

December 20, 1812– Sacagawea died in South Dakota. Clark legally adopted her two children and raised them as his own.

The Oregon Trail Game

You will need a dice and game markers to move around the board. Markers can be coins, buttons, or pieces from other games. Make sure each piece is different for each player. 3-4 players needed

Connect the two board pieces together with tape. If you would like to color the board you may.

2. Cut out the item cards and give each player four cards. One food, one tool, one animal, and one clothing card. Place the remainder of the cards on the board where it states "Item Cards."

3. Cut out the item and "give and take" cards and place them on the board where it states the correct names.

4. Start of the game: Each pioneer packed their wagons or "prairie schooners" with the essential items needed for they journey. Each player will receive essential cards or "item cards" for their journey as well. Remember most of the items on the wagons were not luxury items but essentials like tools, food, and clothing needed to make it on the 3-5 month journey.

Everyone should place their game pieces on the start box. The youngest player goes first. They roll the dice and move the number of spaces they rolled.

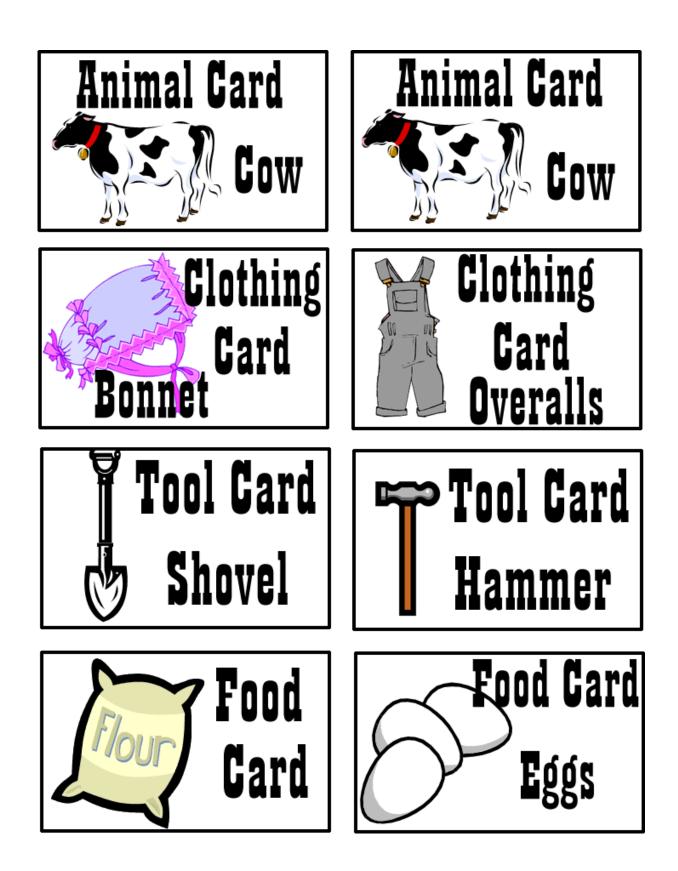

They can move on the spaces backwards or forwards in order to earn cards or trade. They can not move to the END spot until they have one food card, one tool, and one clothing. When they have these items then they can make it to Oregon safely.

5. "Give and Take" Cards (Wagon Spaces) on the board: When you land on a wagon space then the participants draw a wagon card. The cards tell them whether they are picking up items along the trail that were discarded by pioneers along the way or if they loose something off the wagon by traveling through the mud or river.

6. "Trade" Spaces on the board: When a participant lands on this space they can trade cards with the bank or any other player. They can only trade one card per turn but can ask each player until someone trades with them. Example: "Sally will you trade a food card for my tool card." Sally does not have to trade but if she needs a tool card she should. When you land on this space you also have the option to not trade any of your cards, especially if you already have the cards you need.

7. Winning the Game: When a participant has One food, One tool, One animal, and One clothing card. Then they need to try and make it to the END spot without losing any of their needed cards. As a result, they made it safe to Oregon with all their items they need to start their new home. You can continue to play until all the players have made it to Oregon or start a new game.

You will need to make at least four copies of this page for the game board. Cut each card out and place it on the game board on the spot marked "item" cards. If they land on a wagon then they can pull a card from the pile to add to their "wagon".

You will need to make at least two copies of this page for the game board. Cut each card out and place it on the game board on the spot marked "give and take" cards. Once the player has read the card they will need to place it on the bottom of the pile.
